Hi Judge,

As an initial matter, counsel seems to rely on a partial document (just one page) provided by his client's brother. Counsel (and his client's brother) seem to mistake "commitment date" as the day that the BOP is beginning to credit his custodial sentence. Commitment date is typically the day that the BOP designates as the day he is committed to the institution, following the pronouncement of sentence. I have attached the full four-page computation printout from Grand Prairie, the Computation and Designation Center of the BOP. I have highlighted the germane parts. On the last page, at the top, it indicates that the "computation purposes of his custodial time" began on 9/30/05. Moreover, the second highlighted portion indicates that he also received "jail credit" from 4/12/05 to 9/29/05. As I noted in my previous email, the BOP rightfully viewed his two cases (FL and NY) as related. Therefore, his custodial clock, as it were, began ticking on 4/12/05. This is also what was conveyed to me previously on the phone by Grand Prairie. I hope this helps.
